LiveArts-Fringe Festival: Bodies in Urban Spaces

Come join YIP members for the kick off of our arts and cultural event series during Philadelphia's sixteen days of bold, innovative, and live performances from around the world. Vienna-based choreographer Willi Dorner is making his festival debut with bodies in urban spaces, a free, traveling, outdoor dance event that will use newsstands, fire escapes, and downtown office buildings to create a trail of live human sculpture.

Beginning at LOVE Park, we'll follow this cast of twenty Philadelphia dancers on an exploration of familiar spots in Center City. Along the way, the business district will create the scenery as the dancers provide a colorful, imaginative new perspective on Philadelphia's urban landscape.

WHEN: Friday September 5th at 7:00 (arrive between 6:30 and 6:45)

WHERE: We'll meet on the steps to the Fairmount Park Visitor's Center (the round building) at the corner of 16th and JFK Blvd. Call 215.805.8156 if you have problems finding us.

DETAILS: FREE and open to the public. Email YIPsocial@gmail.com with questions.
